Text: Discrete Mathematics and Its Applications by Kenneth Rosen, 8th Edition

Final Exam: Monday, May 10, 10:30—12:30

Grading: Attendance, participation 20%
Quizzes, tests, HW 50%
Final Exam 30%

Requirements: Attend and participate in class regularly; complete the assigned reading and homework; take tests as scheduled.

Discrete math includes many ideas that are foundational in computer science. We’ll learn to solve interesting problems and prove important theorems. Our focus will be on such topics as logic, sets, functions, relations, number theory, counting, proof techniques, induction, recursion, graphs, boolean algebras, and discrete probability.

I plan to give frequent in-class quizzes. Dates for tests and most quizzes will be announced in advance. The final exam will be cumulative.

All students are expected to demonstrate integrity in the completion of their coursework. Academic integrity means doing one’s own work and giving proper credit to the work and ideas of others. It is the responsibility of each student to become familiar with what constitutes academic dishonesty and plagiarism and to avoid all forms of cheating and plagiarism. Students who engage in plagiarism and other forms of academic misconduct will face academic and possibly disciplinary consequences. Academic sanctions can range from a reduced grade for the assignment to a failing grade for the course. From a disciplinary standpoint, an Academic Misconduct Report may be filed and a Faculty Hearing Board may impose sanctions such as probation, suspension or expulsion.

Peer tutoring is available through The Learning Center. Find them at https://web.ccsu.edu/tlc/tutoring/

If you are a student with a documented disability, and would like to request academic accommodations, you are encouraged to contact Student Disability Services (SDS) at 860-832-1952, or email disabilityservices@ccsu.edu. Please visit the SDS website at http://www.ccsu.edu/sds/ to download an Intake form and documentation requirements. Temporary impairments may also qualify for accommodations. Central Connecticut State University provides reasonable accommodations in accordance with the Americans with Disabilities Act and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act for students with documented disabilities on an individualized basis.

Finally, please be aware of the information on the accompanying page regarding CCSU’s standards and policies regarding discrimination, harassment, sexual misconduct, etc.
Syllabus statements are the first step in communicating expectations with students. The following examples are consistent with University policies and procedures related to the learning environment.
